To play badminton, fence or clog dance at any time requires plenty of energy, but to do these things after standing all day behind the ribbon counter or in the shoe department requires a great deal more. However, this was the background for the splendid exhibition of gymnastic work staged last evening by the Eaton Girls' Club, at 4:15 Yonge St.

Few happiness and good looks, in addition to a finished performance were the chief characteristics of the display put on by the girls. They were a credit to their instructor, Miss Elizabeth Pitt, and to the firm which was represented by Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Eaton, the latter smartly dressed in black with a black broad-tail wrap.

EARLY SPRING ARCHERY

The proceedings opened with the playing of the badminton finals. The junior rivals were, Miss Doris Roberts and Miss Evelyn McConney, the former winning with a score of 11-8, and 11-2, while the seniors were, Miss Gladys Green, who was defending her cup for last year, and Miss Dorothy Wood, the former retaining her honors with scores of 11-2, and 11-7.

Back-breaking gymnastics, which would reduce the most recalcitrant hips, were staged by a number of girls, smart in navy blue tunics. Several of the exercises, which included twisting the foot around the head from a sitting position, reminded the audience of a group of Mohammedans at prayer.

A catchy number was the clogging done by a class frocked in white skirts and red blazers. They put all the pep and verve into their number which features the professionals on the stage. The Navy Blues done by five girls in navy blue tunics, contrasted with an amusing combination of the old Sailor's Hornpipe, touched up with a dash of jazz.

The clogging novelty done by five realistic skeletons in a green and murky light, was just as good as any which made Tam O'Shanter's hair stand on end.

SENSATIONAL DISPLAY BY DANISH GYMNASTS

Pupils of Niels Bukh Give Outstanding Demonstrations

The University of Toronto Arena resounded last night to the deafening applause of 4,300 enthusiastic spectators who were thrilled at the most glorious display of athletic skill ever given by the pupils of Bukh, Principal of the People's College, Ollerup, Denmark, and twenty-three of his pupils, twelve young women and eleven young men.

Mr. Bukh is recognized as one of the world's greatest authorities in the teaching of physical education and all branched of gymnastics. The three fundamentals of his system are mobility, the teaching of the art of mobility, the body bend and twine. He directed his pupils to a fact that his pupils showed last night to a marked degree; and strength. Both groups of pupils demonstrated their strength and in marked contrast to the majority of groups usually seen demonstrating strength, there was no evidence of overdevelopment, the young bodies of the men and women being perfect specimens of perfectly developed manhood and womanhood.

Sensational Display.

The ease with which the pupils went through seemingly impossible movements brought rounds of applause from those present, while the death-defying tumbling and leaping acts had these present gasping for breath. At the pupils' command they stopped their movements, when the applause broke out louder than ever. Especially did the sensational leaps through the air, given by the youths, make the tour troupe Arthur Hansen give the spectators their quota of thrills. Time after time it appeared as though this young man would break his neck but just as he seemed about to catch on his head he would give a twist and land on his feet.

The program opened with the entire company passing around the arena, while a hardwood floor had been laid over the ice, following a standard-bearer, who carried the Danish flag. During the entire program, "The King" and the Danish National Anthem were played, the gymnasts making a striking picture in their blue outfits. The program included a demonstration of fundamental gymnastics, and despite the fact that they went at top speed for fifteen minutes, going through a maze of contortions not one was seen to breath heavily, proving them to be in wonderful condition. The women wore light sandals while the men who were the center of the demonstration, performed in their bare feet. The women returned to demonstrate group games during which time they sang number of charming songs and then put on a demonstration of apparatus work, and the evening ended with a demonstration of folk dances, old Danish national costumes accompanied with a number of catchy tunes and a grand parade by the entire company.

Conducting Is Novel.

The group went through their work with machine-like precision. Mr. Bukh conducted the program, and he issued his commands in a variety of ways, using his whistle, shrill, grunting, short shrill calls, whistles, etc., by motions. The party is en route home to Denmark after having given demonstrations in many of the leading cities in Canada and the United States. Wherever they have appeared they have aroused much enthusiasm and much good will result from the visit, practically every school and college for miles around Toronto was represented by those in charge of the physical

The program was presented by the auspices of the University of Toronto through the courtesy of the Danish vice consul, D.

The Canadian graduates of the Gymnastic People's College in Ollerup, Denmark, entertained at luncheon in the Eaton's-College Street Restaurant for Misses Hansen and her Danish group, Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Klein, Mr. Klein, the Danish Consul, and Mrs. Klein, Miss Genevieve Barber and Miss Elizabeth Pitt, were among the guests. The four Canadian graduates were Miss Mary Barker, Miss Nora McLennan, Miss Elizabeth Pitt and Miss Donna Michelle. The table was draped with Danish and Canadian flags and a row of red and white 'mums and tall red candles in silver holders made charming table decorations.

They appeared in sky blue silk dresses of a tunic cut and were adorned with white aprons for the demonstrations of women's fundamental gymnastics and singing games. But they switched to old Danish national costumes, as did the men, for the rousing folk dances at the end of the program, and the floor-sweeping skirts, full aprons, 'kerchiefs and demure bonnets took them back into a past century.

Mr. Bukh, who directed the demonstration, varied his verbal commands by using "who-o-o-o," a kind of prolonged whistle without music, "ah-h-a" and such like, all of which made a big hit with the spectators and started his students off on effortless, rhythmical movements.

GIRLS CLAD IN SWIM SUITS FLEE FIRE IN BITTER COLD

Purses Stolen as 37 Escape
From Tank and Gym in Margaret Eaton Hall

YOUTH IS ARRESTED

Pandemonium reigned for several minutes after 8 o'clock last night at the Margaret Eaton Hall, Yonge St., when a two-alarm fire broke out in the basement while swimming and gymnastic classes were going on.

Girls in their gym and swimming suits clambered out of a side window and took refuge in neighboring buildings until the fire, which caused damage estimated at $7,000, was quelled and they were able to go back to the locker-room and don their clothes.

Street cars running from Carlton St. south on Yonge St. had to be re-routed to Church St. A 15-minute break in the service was reported.

Bare-footed and clad only in their wet bathing suits, a number of young women escaped to Yonge St. and found shelter in apartments from the biting cold. Wet bathing suits were removed and clad in make-shift garments. The girls waited until the fire was out and they were able to reach the locker-rooms.

A report that one of the girls who had been in the gymnastic class was missing caused firemen to make a thorough search of the premises. She was later located outside.

It was learned by police that several purses and a gold watch belonging to girl members were stolen. Soon after the firemen arrived they discovered a young man John Abbott, no address, in the basement. He was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. He explained to police that he had only gone into the building to make sure that no person was trapped in the basement.

Thirty-seven Girls Escape

The fire was first discovered when members of the Toronto Masquers' Dramatic Club smelled smoke. They made their way out of the building and warned occupants of the gymnasium and the swimming tank.

Twenty girls were in the tank taking swimming lessons. Seventeen young women were in the gymnasium.

Most of the girls made their exit through the main door of the building to Yonge St. Others escaped through a rear window to a lane and took shelter in nearby apartments. The window through which they made their exit was built as a fire escape from the gymnasium.

Seven of the girls who had been swimming took refuge in the apartment of William Paige, 411 Yonge St., where they were given clothing until able to return to the locker-room for their coats.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. It burned a hole in the floor of the auditorium.
